Re: Truth in Millage (TRIM) Certification

Dear Chairman Bryant:

The Department of Revenue (Department) has reviewed the millage certification documents that the Marion County Board of County Commissioners submitted under subsections 200.065(1)-(4), (6)-(12), (14), and (15), Florida Statutes (F.S.). The review of millage certification documents found the following infractions:

Portions of the property tax levy in the Notice of Proposed Tax Increase advertisement required by s. 200.065 (3)(a), F.S., were incorrect (see attached copy for correct amount to advertise). The notice overstated last year's initially proposed tax levy and incorrectly stated the tax reductions because of value adjustment board and other assessment changes.

Portions of the property tax levy in the Notice of Proposed Tax Increase advertisement required by s.200.065 (3)(a), F.S., were incorrect (see attached copy for correct amount.) The notice understated last year's actual tax levy. Understatement of the prior year's tax levy results in an overstatement of the increase in the levy.

These infractions may constitute noncompliance with the disclosure requirements in s. 200.065, F.S. However, because these infractions does not materially affect the disclosure requirements of the Truth in Millage (TRIM) laws, the Department accepts the certification.

The consequences of future noncompliance include the loss of state revenue sharing funds and ad valorem revenues in excess of the rolled-back rate. Therefore, the taxing authority must correct similar violations in all future submissions.

This determination applies only to the TRIM certification requirements in the listed subsections of s. 200.065, F.S. The Department will send a determination regarding the maximum millage levy requirements of s. 200.065(5), F.S., in a separate notice.

The Department trusts this information will assist you in preparing for and implementing the 2026 TRIM process. If you have questions or require assistance, please call Dianne Porter at (850) 617-8920 or contact the Property Tax Oversight program at Post Office Box 3000, Tallahassee, Florida 32315-3000.

Sincerely,

Report: Ukrainian kids held in camps

Abducted children are being 'brainwashed' by Russia, investigators say

Cybele Mayes-Osterman and Francesca Chambers
USA TODAY

WASHINGTON – Russia is holding tens of thousands of kidnapped Ukrainian children in a sprawling, "potentially unprecedented" network of more than 200 militarization and "brainwashing" camps, according to a Sept. 16 report from a group of war crime investigators.

"What we're seeing is an industrialized network of re-education, aka brainwashing, to turn Ukrainian children into Russians and, in some cases, to turn certain Ukrainian children into soldiers," said Nathaniel Raymond, executive director of the Yale School of Public Health Humanitarian Research Lab, the group behind the report.

Russia's forcible transfer and reeducation of Ukrainian children, and in some cases militarization of them, is occurring at a much larger scale than was previously known, the lab's investigators found. They tracked the children to 210 sites, including summer camps, sanatoriums and military bases inside of Russia and occupied Ukrainian territories.

The youngest Ukrainian children, as young as 4 months old, are held in facilities with names like "forest fairy camp" and "teddy bear camp" where they are taught propaganda like retellings of the Russia-Ukraine war and forced to learn Russian folk songs and fairy tales, Raymond said.

At age 8 and up, they are forced into "cadet schools" and begin receiving junior ROTC-type training and as teenagers, they receive active military and combat training, the researcher said.

At all ages, the children are forbidden from speaking Ukrainian, he said.

The exact number of Ukrainian children who have been abducted by Russia since it launched a full-scale invasion of Ukraine in February 2022 is unknown. Ukraine's government estimates it at nearly 20,000 children, while past reports from the Yale lab have placed it at more than 35,000.

Raymond said the massive Russian operation is rivaled historically only during Nazi Germany and the Soviet Stalin regime. Many Ukrainian children are being held in the same locations and, in at least one case, the exact same facility where people abducted from the Baltic states during the Soviet-era "Operation Tidal Wave" in 1949 were also imprisoned, he added.

According to the report, military training was observed at approximately 40 of the locations and the programs included combat training and drone assembly.

While the researchers don't have evidence in hand that Ukrainian children are forced to fight for Russia in the war, Raymond said the lab an important made breakthrough in that direction when it identified a trench carved in the shape of a "Z" at one militarizationchild camp. "Z trenches," Raymond said, have been used more and more by both sides in the conflict because they guard against blasts from FPV, or first person view, drones.

The lab found that half of the locations they identified are managed by the Russian government. The other half are run by unknown or private operators, but "the true number of facilities affiliated with the government is likely higher," according to the report.

While some children were held at camps and returned home, others were kept indefinitely, the report says, and placed with Russian families who formally adopted them.

The lab sifted through publicly available data and commercially available satellite images to track the facilities.

The "breakthrough" in the investigation, according to Raymond: selfies that local Russian officials snapped with abducted Ukrainian children and posted online. Researchers extracted location data from the photos to track the kids through satellites and reconnaissance.

Ukrainian officials said the report provides irrefutable evidence that Russia is systemically deporting, illegally adopting, reeducating and militarizing children.

"It's now clear Russia plans to use Ukraine's own children as a 'weapon' against us and Europe more broadly," Andriy Yermak, who heads the office of president in Ukraine, said in a statement.

Yale's researchers said they shared the data with the United Nations Security Council, which Russia sits on. The lab has shared past data with the International Criminal Court, which issued arrest warrants in 2023 for Russian President Vladimir Putin and Maria Alekseyevna Lvova-Belova, a Russian official responsible for childron's rights dren's rights.

Russia denies that it is committing war crimes. Without mentioning Ukraine directly, first lady Melania Trump brought up the plight of children in an appeal to Putin in a letter her husband delivered to the Russian leader in August during their Alaskan summit. Ukraine has said the return of children must be part of any deal to end the

The research group had received funding through a U.S. State Department program until the Trump administration shut it off earlier this year, along with other programs it said were wasteful or did not align with American interests.

After outraged lawmakers warned the satellite imagery and biometric data used to track stolen children could be lost as a result, the State Department temporarily restored funds to allow for the information to be transferred. Ukrainian authorities hope to use archived data to bring children home and prosecute Russian officials responsible for the unlawful adoptions.
